SALTY SNOW 2007

a bit scary really... 2005

SWAN SONG 2004

ANONYMOUS 2004, 2005

selected works 2004-2009 / on publications

"Maarit Suomi Väänänen's absolutely absurd film is depicting scenes between mother and daughter in an environment where the Stone Age is joining with some urban elements. Nina Renvall's excessively realistic presentation as Likka is irresistible, like Appe Vanajas in the role of Pik Mama..." Leena Kuumola, Huvustadsbladet 18.6.2011

- Best short film in the International Selection - award
Festival du nouveau cinema, Montreal, Canada 2009

- Audience Award for all film and video works, Filmhuis Den Haag, the Netherlands 2010

"On the horizon, a sweet graceless creature appears, a Datsun 100A, propelled by a cloud of dust. The world grows broader, the journey continues bouncing and striving forward in an insanely rugged, rocky world... The main character's appearance in the film calls out: Look at me, look at me! This creature, covered in snow and struggling sightlessly forward, is at once beginning a life, and one who has seen it all... Manipulation of time has been put to skillful use as an effect.... The dialogue flows smoothly between the different parts, both in terms of structure, and of sound and content." curator Marita Muukkonen, FRAME Finnish Fund for Art Exchange

"Very daring, to cast a car as the leading figure. But never be surprised with Finnish director Maarit Suomi-Väänänen... Unbearable? Not in the least. Suomi-Väänänen brings the film with typical Finnish humour: very dry and with a sharp bite. Thus she makes you smile."

Niels Bakker, Amsterdam IDFA daily 26.11.2009

"... Suomi-Väänänen's film conveys a strong atmosphere. The beautiful music of Tapani Rinne and Verner Lummi is peaceful and floating, it builds an ambience of sorrow..." Kaisa Heinänen, HS 23.2.2007

"... The imagery is beautiful but also so faceted that it could, and does, awaken a multitude of feelings.

Salty Snow has been selected for Toronto's Worldwide Short Film Festival. Held in June, the festival is the largest of its kind in North America...

Jukka Kangasjärvi at Aamulehti, Satakunnan kansa and KUT 15.5.2007

"...Maarit Suomi-Väänänen makes a hilarious show of this 7 minute film, because of the camera position and bizarre dialogue that develops between the couple...The funniest is the end shot, when the tree has finally fallen down. Niels J. Bakker, Amsterdam IDFA daily 1.12.2006

"... In A bit scary really... (2005) from Maarit Suomi-Väänänen, the camera is on a tripod and doesn't move. What is on camera is great and dramatic slapstick." Michiel van Opstal, www.tubelight.nl 1.1.2006

The diploma of honour by the international jury at Kaunas Agualelle Biennale, Lithuania 2008

"... The work demonstrating the greatest maturity and insight, though, is Swan Song, a video piece by Maarit Suomi from Helsinki, Finland. Suomi's prelude to the classic tale Ugly Duckling shows her to be an experienced filmmaker with an original grasp of her artistic medium..."

Rainer Vilumaa, estonian culture magazine SIRP 17.9.2004

" Maarit Suomi's Swan Song provides us with an update to our dusty concept of our national bird... Her imagery is painterly and aesthetic, with a dream-like quality that gives us an alienated view of reality... The swans appear in the video as if in slow motion, in a moving picture. Even the most wretched aspects of the animals' family life appear noble and sublime within this framework..." Pirjetta Brander, Taide 1.2006

Anonymous was awarded at Firenze Biennale, Italy 2005

"... Maarit Suomi-Väänänen's photographs strike me as exceptionally perceptive and topical. Highly composed in both form and content, they appeal to the intellect. By juxtaposing antithetical visual and philosophical elements, the pieces challenge our views in an unbiased yet suggestive manner...." Leena Saraste PhD, researcher, photographer
